2. Stall booking

A. Mandatory fee

A.1. Mandatory administration fees

A single fee of €200.00 excluding VAT for the main exhibitor, including administration fees, professional access to the FLB.be website, listing on the official map, in the exhibitor catalogue on the Brussels Book Fair website and in the programme, exhibitor civil liability insurance and a limited number of exhibitor badges (proportional to the size of the stand)..

A.2. Additional administrative fees

Additional cost of €200.00 excluding VAT per publishing house represented on your stand, including mention on the official map, in the exhibitor catalogue on the Brussels Book Fair website, as well as in the complete programme and exhibitor civil liability insurance.

As an exhibitor, you may cover additional registration fees for one or more publishing houses in order to represent them at your stand. To do so, simply complete the list of co-exhibitors included in the appendix to this participation contract on page 10. If applicable, you may add the contact person for the publishing house. This person, with their agreement, will then receive an access code to their online personal space in order to register their authors, dedications and information about their publishing house. They will also be able to place their own badge orders.

Another option is to forward a co-exhibitor contract to the publishing house that wishes to participate on your stand, at its own expense. To do so, you will find the co-exhibitor contract at flb.be/etre-exposant.

7. Règlement général

Article 1 - General points

The Brussels Book Fair is organised by the non profit organisation Foire du Livre de Bruxelles, hereinafter referred to as the Organiser, which is solely responsible for enforcing the provisions of these regulations. The terms and conditions for organising the Fair, including the dates, duration, location, opening and closing times, and admission price, are determined by the Organiser and may be modified at its discretion. Exhibitors undertake to comply with and ensure compliance with the requirements set out in the technical dossier that will be provided to them. This file includes all technical information, all useful instructions regarding layout and stand construction, and details of safety measures relating to fire prevention and electrical installations. The Exhibitor is responsible for any failure to comply with the specifications imposed by the owner of the premises made available to the Organiser for the holding of the event. If, in the event of force majeure or for economic or health reasons, the Brussels Book Fair is cancelled before 20 January 2027, all sums paid by exhibitors will be refunded, with the exception of administrative fees, according to a schedule to be agreed between the organiser and the exhibitor. After this date, if the event is cancelled, the exhibitor will have the choice between a pro rata refund of the sums incurred by the Fair with suppliers or a carry-over of all sums paid to the next edition.

Article 2 - Conditions of participation and control of admissions

The Organiser determines the categories of exhibitors and establishes the nomenclature of the products and/or services presented. Participation contracts, to be sent to the Organiser's address, will be submitted to the Admission Committee composed of members of the board of directors of the Brussels Book Fair non-profit organisation. This Committee has sole authority to solicit and select companies authorised to exhibit at the Brussels Book Fair. If participation contracts contain any reservations or are incomplete, they will only be registered on a provisional basis and without any commitment on the part of the Organiser. The Committee's mission is to ensure the ethical conduct of the event in accordance with democratic principles, the Constitution, international conventions and laws, rejecting in particular any message of a racist or revisionist nature and any form of proselytism.

Neither the Organiser nor the Committee is required to justify its decisions regarding applications for participation.

Applicants must therefore provide full information on the nature and content of the publications they intend to exhibit and guarantee that their participation will not damage the good reputation and image of the event (e.g. through significant legal disputes). Acceptance of participation is confirmed by a written response from the Organiser to the Exhibitor.

Participation in one or more editions of the Brussels Book Fair does not automatically imply admission to the next edition.

The Organiser has the right to terminate the participation contract, even after ratification, if the Exhibitor has not satisfied or does not satisfy all the terms and conditions of these regulations.

Participation in the event is non-transferable. An exhibitor may not sublet or share, even free of charge, the space reserved in their name. Signing the participation contract implies an obligation on the part of the exhibitor to occupy the allocated stand for the entire duration of the event. Any space not actually occupied by an Exhibitor by noon on the day before the opening will be allocated to another candidate without prior notice and as of right, without the Exhibitor being entitled to claim any damages or to evade the financial obligations they have contracted. The organisers reserve the right to cancel a conference if they deem that a presentation of published works is non-compliant. Any political gathering or meeting, i.e. a public meeting that brings together activists to listen to speeches by political figures, is prohibited within the Fair.

Article 3 - Withdrawal

In the event of withdrawal within 80 days prior to the event or in the event of non-occupancy for any reason, the sums paid and/or remaining due, in whole or in part, for the rental of the stand shall be retained by the Organiser as compensation, even in the event of re-letting to another exhibitor.

During this same 80- day period, the Exhibitor may not reduce the reserved space. Cancellation must be notified to the Organiser by registered letter.

Article 4 - Particular provision

The Exhibitor undertakes to apply the catalogue price set by the publisher at its stand during the event, without offering any rebates or discounts.

Article 5 - Rates

Rates are mentioned in the participation contract and can be changed by the Organiser in all cases where such a measure is deemed necessary. All prices are meant exclusive Belgian VAT of 21%.

Article 6 - Conditions of payments

Payments must be made within the following times:

A A deposit of 30% of the total amount of the order mentioned on the agreement of participation is to be transferred on the Brussels Book Fair bank account: Fintro BE08 1431 1440 2713;

B The amount has to be paid for November 30, 2026, at the latest.

C Exhibitors who register less than 60 days prior to the event must pay the file costs and the full price of rental, inclusive VAT, upon receipt of the corresponding invoice.

D Payments by cheque are not accepted.

Article 7 - Payment defaults

In the event of non-payment within the specified time frame, the Organiser reserves the right to dispose of the reserved space, with the Exhibitor remaining fully bound by its obligations as a subscriber and required to pay the full amount due. The space will only be made available to the Exhibitor once it has fulfilled all of its commitments to the Organiser. The Organiser therefore reserves the right to refuse the Exhibitor access to its stand or to have it dismantled at the Exhibitor's expense.

Any invoice that is not paid, even partially, within the specified time frame shall automatically and without prior notice the application of late payment interest at the legal rate applicable in the event of late payment in commercial transactions in accordance with the Law of 2 August 2002 on combating late payment in commercial transactions, as well as a surcharge of 11.5% of the invoices as liquidated damages. In addition, in accordance with the provisions of the aforementioned law, the unpaid amount shall be increased, automatically and without formal notice, by a fixed compensation of 40 euros for the recovery costs incurred. This fixed compensation is in addition to other reasonable collection costs incurred as a result of late payment, including procedural compensation in accordance with the provisions of the Judicial Code.

Article 8 - Insurance

In addition to compulsory civil liability insurance, Exhibitors must insure their stand equipment and the goods they display, whether owned by them or by third parties, with a specialist firm designated by the Organiser or with their own insurer.

In the event of an accident, damage, attack or total or partial cancellation caused by force majeure (including terrorist threats and health risks) decided by or imposed on the Organiser, the Exhibitor waives all recourse against: the Brussels Book Fair non-profit organisation, the Tour & Taxis site, its members, directors, representatives, administrators and employees of all these persons or organisations.

The Exhibitor may take out insurance at its own expense covering cancellation of the event due to threats, in particular terrorist attacks and health crises. The special regulations and conditions of these insurance policies are set out in full in the technical file. The Exhibitor must comply with all security measures taken by the Organiser or those imposed on the latter.

Article 9 - Allocation of spaces, distribution of stalls and layout

The Organiser determines how stands are allocated. It is free to draw up the layout plan for the Book Fair and allocate stands, taking into account as far as possible the wishes expressed by the Exhibitor. If necessary, priority will be given on the basis of the size of the stand and the date of receipt of the registration contract. The Organiser may modify the layout and the areas reserved if necessary. It does not undertake to provide all the areas mentioned by the applicant Exhibitor in its registration form. The Exhibitor undertakes to submit the layout of its stand to the Organiser for approval, if it is not built by the latter. The Organiser may modify the layout of the spaces, or even the surface area if necessary, without the Exhibitor being entitled to terminate its commitment.

The Exhibitor will receive a plan showing the location of its stand with dimensions that are as accurate as possible. However, it is the Exhibitor's responsibility to ensure that these dimensions are in accordance with its layout. The Organiser cannot be held responsible for any slight differences between the dimensions indicated and the actual dimensions of the location. The Organiser cannot under any circumstances reserve a location or guarantee it from one edition to another.

The Organiser cannot be held responsible for traffic congestion in the aisles caused by high visitor numbers during peak times. The Exhibitor undertakes to submit the complete list of signatures 10 days before the event in order to ensure the management of visitor flows and control of the general safety and security aspects of the event.

Article 10 - Setting up and decorating stalls

The stands shall be set up in accordance with the general layout plan for the event drawn up by the Organiser. Exemptions may be granted with the prior written authorisation of the Organiser and in accordance with the conditions set out in the Exhibitor's technical file.

The decoration of any bare stand must be submitted to the Organiser for approval in order to preserve the proximity of each exhibitor and the flow of visitors. Any exemption from height restrictions must be requested from the Organiser.

The specific decoration of the stands is carried out by the Exhibitor, under their responsibility, and must comply with the safety regulations established by the Organiser and the owner of the premises. The Organiser determines the display methods and conditions of use of any sound, lighting or audiovisual equipment on the stands. Any entertainment or promotional activities on the stands must be presented to the Organiser and receive its written authorisation. The Exhibitor may not carry out any promotional activities (distribution of advertising material, etc.) outside the perimeter of its stand, unless it has obtained prior written authorisation from the Organiser, which also sets the conditions for photography or sound recording within the Fairgrounds.

In general, it is forbidden to disturb the occupants of neighbouring stands and their visitors with noisy events or activities.

For safety reasons in particular, it is prohibited to place protruding objects on the outside of the stand; to damage the equipment provided in any way; to paint or stick posters on the interior or exterior walls of the premises, columns, balustrades, etc.

With regard to the layout of the stands, the Exhibitor must strictly comply with the requirements set out in the technical file. The Exhibitor shall take possession of the premises in the condition in which they are found and shall return them in the same condition. Any damage caused by the installation and decoration of the stand shall be at the Exhibitor's expense. Each stand must be self-supporting.

Flammable materials must be carefully fireproofed (M1 standards). The specific decoration of each stand must be in harmony with the overall decoration.

The stands must be kept in immaculate condition. Bulk packaging, items not used for presentation and staff cloakrooms must be kept out of sight of visitors.

Article 11 - Evacuation and reconditioning

The premises and grounds must be vacated by the Exhibitor within the timeframe communicated to the Exhibitor by the Organizer.

After this deadline, the Organizer will automatically proceed to remove any goods, waste, and equipment remaining on the grounds at the Exhibitor's expense and risk. In addition, a fine of €200.00 per day of delay and per 6 m² of reserved space will be applied. The Organizer cannot be held liable for goods and waste not removed within the prescribed time limits.

The Organizer further reserves a right of retention over the goods of any Exhibitor who has not complied with all the terms and conditions of these regulations. The Organizer shall not be required to complete any legal formalities in this regard.

Article 12 - Services

In any case, the Organiser and/or the Tour and Taxis site reserve the right to make use, either directly or through a selected society, of all services connected to the Fair (like restaurants, cloakrooms, bars, picture-taking, etc.). The Exhibitors are compelled to ask the Organiser exclusively for all catering services during demonstrations or receptions as part of the Brussels Book Fair. The terms and conditions of this catering service are listed in the technical file.

Article 13 - Sponsoring and promotion

The Exhibitor may not, within the framework of the Book Fair, engage in advertising, promotions or sponsorship on behalf of a third party, in any form whatsoever, including by simply mentioning the name of the third party, without the prior written consent of the Organiser.

The Exhibitor may purchase opening ceremony tickets for its customers from the Organiser under the conditions described in the technical file. These tickets may not be used for any commercial activity.

The Exhibitor may not sell the opening ceremony cards and shall ensure that the beneficiaries of these cards do not use them for commercial purposes.

The Exhibitor shall not use the opening ceremony cards for promotional purposes for the benefit of third parties or in collaboration with third parties. The same applies to all access passes or entry cards.

Article 14 - Bankruptcy

The bankruptcy or proven insolvency of the Exhibitor shall result in the immediate termination, at the Exhibitor's expense and liability, of the contracts existing between the parties. The Organiser shall prohibit the installation of the stand or may require its closure if bankruptcy is declared during the Fair.

The sums paid shall remain the property of the Organiser as lump-sum compensation, without prejudice to the right to claim any unpaid balance of the registration fee.

Article 15 - Implementation of the Rules and Regulations

The Exhibitor formally undertakes to comply with all clauses, whatever they may be, of these regulations and any other regulations relating to health and security measures that may be imposed by the Organiser or any public authority and which are strictly enforceable. The Organiser shall be sole judge of the measures to be taken with regard to the application of the said clauses

By participating in the Brussels Book Fair, the Exhibitor acknowledges the Organizer's right to unilaterally take any measures to defend and safeguard the interests of the event and of all or some of the exhibitors, as well as any measure deemed useful or necessary to ensure the safety of the premises, exhibitors, or visitors.

These measures may extend to denial of access, cancellation of meetings or participatory activities, expulsion, the deactivation or removal of dangerous products, the forced dismantling of installations, or recourse to emergency legal provisions regarding seizure. These measures are taken at the Exhibitor's expense and do not release the Exhibitor from any sums or amounts still owed as a result of its participation.

Article 16 - Jurisdiction

The Organiser reserves the right to cancel or suspend, without any liability for compensation, any events organized by the Exhibitor that could interfere with the smooth running of the event or jeopardize the safety of other exhibitors, the public, or the Fair's staff. In the event of a dispute, the courts of Brussels shall have exclusive jurisdiction (French-speaking division), following the failure of mediation initiated by the party acting with due diligence.

Article 17 - Adoption of health and security measures

By participating in the Brussels Book Fair, the Exhibitor acknowledges the Organiser's right to unilaterally take any measures necessary to defend and safeguard the interests of the event, of all or some of the exhibitors, as well as any measures deemed useful or necessary to ensure the safety of the premises, exhibitors, or visitors.

Depending on the risks involved, these measures include, in particular: the obligation to attend all meetings with the Organiser and the police or security services; the denial of access or cancellation of participation in the Brussels Book Fair; the cancellation of any form of participation (booth, events, ...), expulsion, the Brussels Book Fair's refusal or modification of the choice of guests and meeting topics, the decommissioning or removal of hazardous products, the mandatory dismantling of installations, or the invocation of legal emergency provisions regarding seizure.

The Organiser is entitled to charge the Exhibitor for the cost of these measures, including additional costs incurred to ensure safety that are not covered by the City of Brussels or by any third-party payer, which do not relieve the Exhibitor of the sums and amounts for which it remains liable due to its participation.

The exhibitor acknowledges that the fair serves as a venue for the exchange and dissemination of works and ideas, organised in accordance with the rules necessary to ensure the safety of persons and property, public order, and the smooth running of the event. As such, the Organiser may regulate the manner of expression within the fair, in accordance with fundamental freedoms, including freedom of expression and creativity, and in a strictly proportionate manner.
